"There exist different	conceptions of the word "	theory" in architecture. Man	y scholars agree that architectural theory consists in the attempt to formulate the maxims, the rules and percepts that govern the practice of the builder. Such percepts assume that we already know what we want to achieve. Thus, the nature of architectural success is not at issue; the question is, rather, how best to achieve it. A theory of architecture has negative effects on aesthetics only if it claims a universal validity, for then it must aim to capture the essence, and not the accidents, of architectural beauty.
